FÖRORD / PREFACE

Kan man äga en vikingaskatt? Denna fråga är rubriken på ett debattinlägg av Birgitta Hårdh i Fornvännen 1988. Bakgrundens är upptäckten av den fantastiska skatt som vi nu ska sälja genom denna katalog - den så kallade Everlövskatten. Det korta svaret på Hårdhs fråga är - Ja! Fyndomständerna kring skatten - och formminneslagstiftningen - ger vid handen att det är en privatperson som lagligen är ägare till mynten och artefakterna. Saken har även prövats rättsligt, varefter vi nu alltså står inför en unik försäljning.

Som auktionister med rötterna i den akademiska världen sätter vi stort värde på den numismatiska forskningen. Vi förstår Everlövskattens vetenskapliga betydelse. Därför har vi hanterat den på ett vetenskapligt sätt; sällan har en myntskatt behandlats så ingående som i denna katalog av en kommersiell aktör. Förutom genom föreliggande katalog, som omfattar såväl en fyndkatalog som en auktionskatalog, stödjer vi vetenskapen genom att ställa katalogens högupplösta fotografier till vetenskapens förfogande, givetvis utan någon kompenstation.

Samtidigt som det är naturligt för oss att producera en vetenskaplig katalog är det inte utan glädje vi ser att skattens mynt nu kommer en bredare allmänhet till del. Vi tror att möjligheten att förvärva något ur vårt gemensamma kulturarv ökar intresset för och förståelsen för denna omvälvande tid i vår historia; trots att föremålen alltså skintras kommer de ändå att tillföra andra former av värden än bara det fysiska bevarandet i något museum. De privata samlarna är ofta föredömliga värdförrådare av vårt kulturarv och utan dem hade den numismatiska forskningen inte alls varit så utvecklad som den är idag.

Vi hoppas att föreliggande katalog ska tjäna såväl vetenskapen som samlarna på olika sätt. Förhoppningsvis blir den - liksom en del av våra tidigare auktionskataloger och andra publikationer - ett referensverk med god livslängd. Bernt Thelin - utan vars insats denna katalog inte hade blivit till - har i huvudsak skrivit katalogen, till del med bistånd av Håkan Fransson, och för kvalitets- och prissättning ansvarar i stort sett undertecknad. Mitt varma tack till dessa båda herrar för en stor och mycket gedigen insats med katalogen, liksom till Magnus Wijk för förstklassiga fotografier över mynt som har erbjudit speciella utmaningar att avbilda!

Is it possible to own a Viking-age treasure? This question is the title of a debate post by Birgitta Hårdh in Fornvännen 1988. The background is the discovery of the remarkable treasure that we will now sell through this catalogue - the so-called Everlöv treasure. The short answer to Hårdh's question is - Yes! The circumstances surrounding the treasure - and the antiquities legislation - show that it is a private individual who is the legal owner of the coins and artifacts. The case has also been tried in court and because of this we are now facing a unique sale.

As auctioneers with our roots in academia, we place great value on numismatic research. We understand the scientific significance of the Everlöv treasure. Therefore, we have handled it in a scientific way. Rarely has a coin treasure been treated as thoroughly by a commercial player as in this catalogue. In addition to the present catalogue, which includes both a find catalogue and an auction catalogue, we support science by making the catalogue's high-resolution photographs available to science, of course without any compensation.

We find it natural to produce a scientific catalogue, but at the same time it is not without joy that we see that the treasure's coins now reach a wider audience. We believe that the opportunity to acquire something from our common cultural heritage increases the interest in and understanding of this dramatic time in our history; even though the objects are thus dispersed, they will still add other forms of value than only the physical preservation in any museum. The private collectors are often very good caretakers of our cultural heritage and without them, numismatic research would not have been as developed as it is today.

We hope that this catalogue will serve both science and collectors in different ways. Hopefully it will - like some of our previous auction catalogues and other publications - be a reference work with a good lifespan. Bernt Thelin - without whose efforts this catalogue would not have come into being - has mainly written the catalogue, partly with the assistance of Håkan Fransson. The undersigned is largely responsible for quality and pricing. My warm thanks to these two gentlemen for a great and very solid effort with the catalogue, as well as to Magnus Wijk for first-class photographs of coins that have offered special challenges to depict!

EVERLÖVFYNDETS SAMMANSÄTTNING / THE COMPOSITION OF THE EVERLÖV HOARD

De yngsta mynten i fyndet är danska med inskrifter som anger Knut som kung över danskarna. Knut den store, som hade blivit engelsmännens kung på vintern 1016, kom efter sin bror Haralds död 1018 även att bli kung över danskarna. Det sägs att Knut seglade hem till Danmark för att överta den danska tronen 1019. När präglingen av mynt i hans namn och med dansk kungatitel började är inte klarlagt. De mynt i Knuts namn och med dansk regenttitel som ingår i fyndet har sin förebild i kung Æthelred II's mynttyp med benämningen Last Small Cross. Æthelred dog våren 1016 och efterträddes då av sin son Edmund Järnsida. Men sista november samma år dog oväntat även Edmund och Knut lyckades vid ett midvintermöte i London finna stöd hos biskopar, jarlar och stormän att bli utropad till hela Englands kung. Æthelreds mynttyp ersattes därefter av Knuts första engelska typ som benämns Quatrefoil. Att de första danska mynten i Knuts namn skulle vara av en tidigare typ än den Quatrefoil han själv introducerar i England har diskuterats. I England fanns det åtskilliga myntorter och inom samma typ kunde mynten ha olika detaljutförande beroende på var stamparna till dem hade tillverkats. Det som uppmärksammats är att porträttbilden på de danska mynten är så snarlika engelska mynt av samma typ som är präglade i Lincoln, att det förefaller att även de danska myntstamparna kan ha tillverkats där. Att det dessutom är av typen Last Small Cross för misstankarna till att stamparna kan ha tillverkats redan före Knuts tillträde som kung av danskarna. Oavsett vilket, är bedömmningen att fyndet inte kan ha deponerats tidigare än år 1018.

Sammansättningen, där huvuddelen utgörs av tyska och anglosaxiska mynt, är vanlig för de svenska fynden. Det som dock är anmärkningsvärt är det stora antalet av Bayerska mynt, som tillsammans med mynt från Italien och Böhmen och dessutom två ytterst sällsynta ungerska mynt, visar på sydliga handelsvägar som inte har konstaterats i andra fynd.

I England genomfördes under kung Edgar en myntreform omkring 973, där myntens utseende, vikt och giltighetsperiod reglerades. Mynten skulle förses med en bild av kungen tillsammans med hans namn och titel på åtsidan och på frånsidan en kristen symbol, samt i omskriften myntmästarens namn och myntorten där myntet präglats. Ett exemplar av dessa första, ytterst intressanta mynt av typen Reform Small Cross ingår i fyndet. Det övriga anglosaxiska materialet utgörs av mynt från Æthelred II med en anmärkningsvärt stor andel Long Cross, ca 75%, en mynttyp som präglades under perioden ca 997-1003. Av Last Small Cross (ca 1009-1017), som är den sista av Æthelreds mynttyper, och den som används som förebild för de danska mynten som nämns inledningsvis, finns endast fem exemplar.

Irländska mynt från den vikingaättade kung Sigtrygg Silkesskägg (Sihtric) i Dublin förekommer rätt frekvent i myntfynd, men oftast i enstaka eller några få exemplar. I det här fallet ser vi ett av de fynd, eller rent av det fynd, med flest förekommende irländska mynt som har hittats.

The youngest coins in the find are Danish with inscriptions indicating Cnut as king over the Danes. Cnut the Great, who had become the king of the English in the winter of 1016, also became king of the Danes after the death of his brother Harald in 1018. It is said that Cnut sailed home to Denmark to take over the Danish throne in 1019. When the minting of coins in his name and with the Danish royal title began is not clear. The coins in Cnut's name and with the Danish regent title that are included in the find have their origin in King Æthelred II's coin type called Last Small Cross. Æthelred died in the spring of 1016 and was succeeded by his son Edmund Ironside. But last November of the same year, Edmund also died unexpectedly, and at a midwinter meeting in London, Cnut managed to find support from bishops, earls, and nobles to be proclaimed king of all England. Æthelred's coin type was then replaced by Cnut's first English type called Quatrefoil. It has been discussed that the first Danish coins in Cnut's name would be of an earlier type than the Quatrefoil he himself introduces in England. In England there were several mints and within the same coin type they could have different details depending on where the dies for them were made. It has been noticed that the portrait on the Danish coins is very similar to the English coins of the same type that were minted in Lincoln. Therefore, it seems possible that the Danish dies may also have been made there. That they also are of the Last Small Cross type raises the suspicion that the dies may have been manufactured even before Cnut's accession as king of the Danes. Regardless, the assessment is that the find could not have been deposited earlier than 1018.

The composition of the find, where the majority consists of German and Anglo-Saxon coins, is common to the Swedish finds. What is remarkable, however, is the large number of Bavarian coins which, together with coins from Italy and Bohemia and two extremely rare Hungarian coins, point to southern trade routes that have not been found in other finds.

In England, under King Edgar, a coin reform was carried out around 973 where the appearance, weight, and period of validity of the coins were regulated. The coins were to be provided with a picture of the king together with his name and title on the obverse and on the reverse a Christian symbol as well as in the inscription the monyer's name and the minting place. One example of these first, extremely interesting coins of the Reform Small Cross type is included in the find. The other Anglo-Saxon material consists of coins from Æthelred II with a remarkably large proportion of Long Cross, about 75%, a type of coin that was minted during the period about 997-1003. On the other hand, there are only five examples of the Last Small Cross type (ca. 1009-1017), which is the last of Æthelred's coin types and the one used as a model for the Danish coins mentioned in the introduction.

Irish coins from the Viking-born king Sigtrygg Silkbeard (Sihtric) in Dublin occur quite frequently in coin finds, but usually in a single or a few coins. In this case, we see one Av de 14 irländska mynten är två av typen Helmet. Den engelska förebilden präglades ca 1003-1009. För irländska mynt är typen ovanlig och "Everlöv-fyndet" tillhör det tidigaste fynd där den irländska Helmet-typen registrerats.

Förutom de danska, läsbara mynten som nämnts inledningsvis, ingår ytterligare ett flertal med förvirrade inskrifter. Genom stampkedjeforskning, där man kan följa hur olika åt- och frånsidesstammar, både läsbara och förvirrade, har använts tillsammans, kan man påvisa var många av de oläsbara mynten har präglats. Mynt från flera danska stampkedjor är representerade i fyndet. Genom att studera sammansättningen av mynten som ingår i dessa, ser man en tydlig bild av närheten till den då danska myntorten i Lund. Den största danska kedjan (kedja 105) representeras av inte mindre än 23 mynt. Det som tydligt visar "närheten" till Lund är bland annat att en åtsidesstamp har använts till 11 av dessa mynt i kombination med tre olika frånsidesstammar. Dessutom är det ovanligt många mynt med den läsbara inskriften Cnut rex Dænorūm, i varierande stavning, representerade i tre olika stampkedjor.

I fyndet finns också skandinaviska imitationer av den ovanligare Helmet-typen. Med något enstaka undantag bedöms imitationerna av dessa vara utförda av den så kallade "Helmet-mästaren". Uppfattningen är att han har verkat i Lund och därifrån även försatt Sigtuna med sina vackert utförda stammar. Det finns även forskare som har hävdat en viss koppling till de Helmet-mynt som har tillverkats i Dublin, eftersom utförandet av mynten är mycket snarlika. De åtta skandinaviska Helmet-imitationerna som finns i fyndet är samtidiga kopplade till dansk myntning.

Sigtuna är representerat med tre mynt från den tidigaste svenska myntningen med start omkring 995, den av Malmer benämnda "klassiska serien", med läsbara mynt med förebild från Æthelreds Crux-typ. Utöver dessa finns det mynt som är knutna till Sigtuna genom säkra stampkedjor, bland annat 18 exemplar till den successivt utökade, stora kedjan 10/11/14/126. Bland de mynt som tillhör Sigtuna finns det två mynt med vardera åtta stampidentiska exemplar och ett med fem. Tillsammans ger det en tydlig indikation på direktkontakter, då mynten måste ha hållits samman på sin väg från mynthuset i Sigtuna tills de hamnade i jorden i danska Skåne någon gång strax efter år 1018.

of the finds, or even the find, with the greatest number of Irish coins that have been found. Of the 14 Irish coins, two are of the Helmet type. The English prototype was minted around 1003-1009. For Irish coins, this type is unusual and the "Everlöv find" is one of the earliest finds where the Irish Helmet type has been registered.

In addition to the Danish, legible coins mentioned in the introduction, several others with blundered inscriptions are included. Through die chain research, where you can follow how different obverse and reverse dies, both readable and confused, have been used together, you can identify where many of the unreadable coins have been minted. Coins from several Danish die chains are represented in the find. By studying the composition of the coins that included in these chains, you can see a clear picture of the "proximity" to the Danish mint in Lund. The largest Danish chain (Malmer chain 105) is represented by no less than 23 coins. What clearly shows the "proximity" to Lund is, among other things, that one obverse die has been used for 11 of these coins in combination with three different reverse dies. In addition, there are unusually many coins with the legible inscription Cnut rex Dænorūm, in varying spellings, represented in three different die chains.

The find also contains Scandinavian imitations of the more unusual Helmet type. With a few exceptions, these imitations are judged to have been made by the so-called "Helmet master". The opinion is that he worked in Lund and from there also provided Sigtuna with his beautifully executed dies. There are also researchers who have claimed a connection to the Helmet coins made in Dublin because the design of the coins is very similar. The eight Scandinavian Helmet imitations in the find are all linked to Danish coinage.

Sigtuna is represented by three coins from the earliest Swedish coinage starting around 995, namely the coins referred to by Malmer as the "classic series" with readable coins based on Æthelred's Crux type. In addition to these, there are coins that are linked to Sigtuna through reliable die chains, including 18 coins of the successively expanded, large chain 10/11/14/126. Among the coins belonging to Sigtuna, there are two coins with eight die identical copies each and one with five. Together, this gives a clear indication of direct contacts as the coins must have been held together on their way from the coin house in Sigtuna until they ended up in the ground in Danish Scania sometime shortly after the year 1018.

KOMMENTARER TILL FYNDKATALOGEN / COMMENTS TO THE FIND CATALOGUE

Samlingen har i mitten på 1980-talet hanterats av numismatiska experter i Stockholm. Mynten bestämdes (Bengt E. Hovén, Kenneth Jonsson, Eva Svensson, Inger Hammarberg) och placerades var för sig i myntkuvert som numrerades. En förteckning över alla mynten gjordes och publicerades 1987 i Corpus Nummorum Saeculorum IX-XI qui in Suecia repert sunt. 3. Skåne. 4. Maglarp – Ystad.

Någon gång under hanteringen har alltså myntkuverten numrerats och många mynt fått motsvarande nummer med bläckskrift. Vid den genomgång av mynten som nu gjorts inför utarbetandet av denna auktionskatalog upptäcktes det att numreringen av kuvert och mynt inte stämmer överens med numren i bokens förteckning från 1987. I vilket syfte numreringen gjorts är oklart. Fel kanske uppstod för att en del mynt under en period var utställda på Lunds Universitets Historiska museum och ytterligare fel kanske uppstod för att mynten hanterades av flera olika personer. Mynten i samlingen har alltså till stor del behövt identifieras på nytt så att numren i förteckningen stämmer med mynten i myntkuverten.

Vid utarbetandet av den nya förteckningen har indelning, beskrivningar och referenser till största delen behållits. Några nya moderna referenser har dock lagts till när det gäller de skandinaviska mynten. I den ursprungliga förteckningen finns detaljer om mynten som inte tagits med i den nya, t.ex. stampställning och antal hack. För dessa uppgifter hänvisar vi därför till förteckningen i ovan angivna bok, som fortfarande finns att köpa hos Kungl. Vitterhetsakademien.

I auktionskatalogen är olika defekter hos mynten angivna. Dock har inte angivits att mynt har blivit rengjorda eftersom i princip alla mynt rengjorts, troligen när de hanterats i Stockholm. En stor del av mynten har också av museipersonalen försetts med nummer i svart bläckskrift. På samma sätt har inte svagprägling hos de tyska mynten angivits generellt eftersom de flesta tyska mynten är svagpräglade längs randen, dock med undantag för mynten från Bayern.

This collection was in the mid 1980's examined by numismatic experts in Stockholm. The coins were identified (Bengt E. Hovén, Kenneth Jonsson, Eva Svensson, Inger Hammarberg) and placed separately in coin envelopes, which were numbered. A list of all coins was made which was published in 1987 in the book Corpus Nummorum Saeculorum IX-XI qui in Suecia repert sunt. 3. Skåne. 4. Maglarp – Ystad.

As mentioned, sometime during the handling the coins, envelopes were numbered and many of the coins were numbered in ink writing with the corresponding number. When the coins were reviewed before the preparation of this auction catalogue it was discovered that the numbering of envelopes and coins do not correspond to the numbers in the list in the book from 1987. For what purpose the numbering was done is unclear. Mistakes may have been made because some coins for a period were exhibited at the Historical Museum at Lund University and additional mistakes may have been introduced because several different persons were involved. Anyway, it has been necessary to identify most of coins in the collection again so that the numbering in the list corresponds to the coins in the envelopes.

In the find list in this auction catalogue classification, descriptions and references have for the most part been retained from the original list. Some new modern references have however been added for the Scandinavian coins. The list from 1987 contains additional details regarding the coins which have not been included in the present list. The book is still available from the Royal Swedish Academy of Letters, History and Antiquities.

In the auction catalogue different defects have been noted. However, it has not been noted that coins have been cleaned as almost all coins have been cleaned, probably during their handling in Stockholm. Similarly, German coins with a weak stamp are not noted as this is the most common case, except for the coins from Bavaria.

CONDITIONS OF SALES

This is an English translation of the Swedish version of Condition of Sales. In case of dispute only the Swedish version of the present Conditions of Sales of Myntauktioner i Sverige AB is valid.

By participating in the auction, bidders and buyers are obliged to follow terms of sales as specified below.

BIDDING

All bidders must register before the auction starts. A bidder who has not already got a number paddle when receiving the auction catalogue will receive a number paddle in connection with the registration on the auction day. Placed bids are binding. Myntauktioner i Sverige AB is entitled to disregard bids for any reason considered to be unreliable. Bidders unknown to the auctioneer are kindly asked to give references prior to the commencement of the auction. The auctioneer has the sole right in all decisions regarding performance of the auction. In case of identical bids or any conflicts the auctioneer has the sole right to decide if the bids shall be taken up or not. Bids by telephone can only be accepted after separate agreement.

ESTIMATED PRICES

The estimates indicated in the catalogue are given in Swedish crowns (SEK) and are to be regarded as minimum prices. Thus no lots can be sold below the prices indicated.

WRITTEN BIDS

Absent bidders can place written bids. Myntauktioner i Sverige AB will monitor these bids for the bidder. Bids can be submitted via our homepage and Numisbids until the auction begins. It is also possible to bid in writing to our postal address or via e-mail to:

anbud@myntauktioner.se

Bids by letter or e-mail will be monitored and bid steps specified below will be followed. In the event of several bids for the same amount preferences will be given to the first bid received. Unlimited bids are not accepted.

Written bids must be received by 2022-04-27.

PREMIUM

A buyers premium of 18,75% (15%+VAT) on the hammer price will be added to each object.

PAYMENT

Objects purchased shall be paid for in cash or by bank card at Tegelbacken 6 immediately in connection to the auction. When paying by credit card, a fee of 2.2% on Swedish cards and 2.5% on foreign cards will be added. We do not accept payment by American Express, Diners, Euro checks or payment by foreign checks. As of 1 August 2010, a new law applies that does not allow fees to be charged for card purchases. Myntauktioner i Sverige AB are exempt from this law, as we fall under the Commission Act (2009: 865). The maximum cash amount that we accept as auction proceeds is SEK 50,000 (SEK). When purchasing as a result of a written bid, payment must be made within ten days of the buyer receiving payment instructions with information on the total amount and shipping costs. The ownership of won objects is transferred to the buyer only after he has paid full payment. In the event of delay in payment, Myntauktioner i Sverige AB has the right to either cancel the purchase or hand over the case for collection. Until cancellation or payment has taken place, default interest is paid at a monthly interest rate of one (1) percent on the amount in question at any given time. Written bidders who wish to pay via Paypal must, upon receipt of the invoice, express this request via e-mail to finance@myntauktioner.se. When paying via Paypal, a fee of 5% of the invoice total will be added. The maximum amount for payment via Paypal is SEK 20,000 (SEK).

DELIVERY

Purchased items must, after payment, be picked up in immediate connection with the auction, which takes place at Hotell Sheraton, Tegelbacken 6. We also offer the opportunity to pick up items at Banérgatan 17, Stockholm, the Monday after the auction ends, and at Storgatan 10, Moheda, Thursday after the auction ends. Items that have not been picked up as above, are sent by Myntauktioner i Sverige AB to the buyer, after full payment has been received. We charge a service fee of SEK 200 for handling all purchases that have not been collected by Thursday after the auction has ended (the fee is also charged for purchases that may not be sent). We do not charge for shipping and insurance for normal deliveries. NOTE! We are not responsible for shipments after they have been handed over to Postnord; all shipments are thus sent at the customer's risk. We are also not responsible for items that remain with us after the invoice payment period has expired. Costs that arise in connection with the shipment of objects abroad, whatever they may be, shall be borne in full by the buyer. Myntauktioner i Sverige AB disclaim all responsibility in this regard.

ATT TÄNKA PÅ / TO CONSIDER

FÖRSÄNELSER

För försändelser av inköpta objekt svarar inte Myntauktioner i Sverige AB för högre försäkringsbelopp än vad som i varje fall kan avtalas med PostNord. Alla andra försäkringslösningar/transporter måste tecknas/ordnas av kunden själv. I det fall värdet av det försända överstiger det maximala ersättningsbeloppet, påtar sig kunden själv hela risken om denne ändå begär försändelse. Myntauktioner i Sverige AB ansvarar inte heller för att försällda objekt verkligen är tillåtna för export.

OM EMBALLAGET

Myntauktioner i Sverige AB garanterar inte, att det emballage var i auktionsobjekten är embaljerade vid försäljnings-tillfället är fritt från mjukgörare eller på andra sätt lämpligt för långtidsförvaring.

INTERNATIONAL DELIVERIES

For dispatches shipped to addresses outside Sweden, Myntauktioner i Sverige AB do not take responsibility for higher insurance values than what can be agreed with PostNord, [www.postnord.se]. Other logistic/insurance setups may be arranged by the customer. In case that the value of the shipped goods exceeds the maximum insurance cover, the customer is solely responsible if he requires such shipment. Myntauktioner i Sverige AB do not response that sold coins are allowed for export.

PACKAGING

Myntauktioner i Sverige AB does not guarantee that the material in which the auction lots are packed in at the point of sale is free from softening chemicals or that it in any way is suitable for longtime storage.

EDWARD WAS ONLY ABOUT 13 YEARS OLD when he 975 succeeded his father Edgar on the English throne. Two years earlier, the father had carried out an extensive coin reform so that all coins throughout the country would have the same appearance. On the obverse, they would have the king's bust in profile and on the reverse, information about the minting place and moneyer. They would also be exchanged for new ones every six years. Edward, who was crowned "King of all England" at the end of 975, during his short reign did not have time to get his own coin type, but his coins are, apart from the name, similar to his father's. In Swedish Viking-era finds, Edward the Martyr's coins have been found from time to time. For example, of the 777 English coins in Tingstädeskatten, two coins were struck for him. (B. Malmer, Mynt och människor. 1968)

According to the Anglo-Saxon chronicle, the young teenager Edward worked hard and made himself known for his hot-headed temper and bad behavior, and the author is full of misgivings about the future. Injustice and wickedness prevailed. The good times were over - and it would get worse. The climax was reached in March 978. The chronicle records that Edward was murdered in the evening of 18 March 978, probably at or near the mound on which the ruins of Corfe Castle now stand. The chronicle adds that he was buried at Wareham "without any royal honours". It continues: "No worse deed for the English race was done than this was, since they first sought out the land of Britain. Men murdered him, but God exalted him. In life he was an earthly king; after death he is now a heavenly saint."

Alfthryth, King Edgar's second wife and mother of Edward's younger half-brother Ethelred, was singled out as the instigator of the murder. The purpose would be to promote the cause of her own son in a possible future struggle for power. However, according to recent research there was a major conspiracy behind the murder. Edward, so troubled during his life, came after his death to be nicknamed the martyr.
